REMEMBER BEST ABOUT THE KENNEDYS ...

MOVING? Please use farm inside paper and give full information. Mail- ing list is run on Friday for following week.

During this national spam of Kennedy memorabilia just about everyone has his or her favorite tale to tell, but the thing that sticks in our mind was the masterful use of the news media that built the Camelot image. What a lot of folks do not recall was that Papa Joe Kennedy planned this family's future down to the last dotted line and crossed it, and also that of Joe was a one time ward of Wall Street and also added great wealth to the family fortune in the motion picture industry. Of Joe knew full well that publicity could pick a sold dove out of a bawdy house and create an America's sweetheart image for her, and could also take a rotten male apple and reincarnate him into the All-American boy image. Publicity was the ultimate weapon that could create virtues and scrub blemishes.

Seven States With 7.68 Million Head, Placements in October Dropped 5%, 1.63 Million Marketed Was 6% Higher

Washington, Nov. 16 (USDA) — Cattle and calves on feed Nov. 1 for slaughter market in the seven states preparing monthly estimates totaled 7.68 million, a 6% decrease from a year ago but 8% above Nov. 1, 1981, according to the Crop Reporting Board.

Dairy Price Support Bill Goes To White House, Reagan

The controversial dairy price support bill was passed and sent to the White House for President Reagan's signature last week. There is some speculation that Reagan might veto the bill, since Socy. of Agriculture Block dislikes it and it is believed the President will act on his recommendation. The bill also includes changes in the tobacco price support law and also an amendment to force USDA to sell surplus grain to livestock growers in drought stricken areas.

Under the bill, farmers would be paid $10 for each hundred-pound reduction of milk production from a base period. This so-called paid diversion would last for 16 months.

The bill also includes a Senate-passed measure designed to make the price of U.S. tobacco more competitive in world markets by freezing the price-support level and restricting the sale of the right to grow flue-cured tobacco.

In addition, the bill would: — Assess dairy farmers 50 cents on each 100 pounds, or 11.83 gallons, of milk to pay for most of the paid diversion. — Reduce the dairy price-support level by 50 cents from the current $13.10 for each 100 pounds. The reduction would last 16 months. An administration-proposed bill, which was defeated in the House, would have reduced that level by $1.60 a hundredweight.

Provide drought-stricken farmers with federal aid to buy animal feed, a provision that the administration has asserted might cost $1 billion. Republicans have implied that President Reagan might veto the bill, but several House aides and Agriculture Department officials said they don't expect to veto.

New Truck Over-Load Hogs Explained By Sen. Bill Sarpalius

quest for an Attorney General's opinion regarding H.B. 1114. As these opinions usually take months to complete and generally answer wholly undecided questions, we felt time could be saved by researching and answering your inquiries ourselves. Obviously our opinions do not carry the same weight as the Texas Attorney General's but we feel that our answers are correct.

Q What is a processing point?

A The responsibility for enforcing H.B. 1114 rests with the Department of Public Safety. According to an internal memo for the DPS, "processing" will be interpreted to mean the point when the commodities leave the farmer/producer's control.

Q Is the grain elevator a processor or are grain elevators exempt?

A It is the interpretation of the DPS that a grain elevator is a processor within the law, and thus not exempt from the penalty provisions of H.B. 1114.

Q If a grain elevator is a processor, who is liable for overloading trucks? Management, elevator employee, buyer who requested, overloads, or just the truck driver or owner of the truck?

A Section 1 (b) of H.B. 1114 says anyone who loads, or causes to be loaded, a truck with the intent to violate weight limitations is liable under this law. This could conceivably be any of the persons you listed.

Q What about a turnrow buyer who says at harvest time and goes directly to market? Is he exempt from the law?

A No. Again, under the controlling DPS definition of a processing point, when the control of a commodity leaves the producer, so does the overload exception. Therefore, a turnrow buyer is not exempt from this law.

Q Do these fines and jail sentences just apply to trucks that are over 15% overloaded?

A No. If a truck is overloaded by 15% or more, the court will presume that there was an intent to overload. As stated in the law, the intent is necessary for a conviction. The person charged with overloading of 15% or more will have to prove that he did it without intent. Conversely, if the person is charged with overloading an amount less than 15%, the burden of proof as to intent shifts to the prosecution.

Q What fines apply if a truck is only 15% overloaded? Will someone have to go to jail?

A Even though the burden of proof shifts with the amount overloaded, the fines and penalties do not. Therefore, the fines and jail times are the same if convicted for being 8% overloaded as they are for being 15% overloaded. Jail terms are only a possibility for 2nd and 3rd convictions in the same year.

Q What type of charge is the jail sentence, a felony?

A Felony are charges that carry a possibility of a greater than one year sentence. Third and subsequent convictions within one year do not carry the hope of a jail time. Therefore this statute does not call for felony charges.

We hope that these answers are satisfactory. If you would like further explanation of any of these areas please feel free to contact us again.

prices now are at the lowest level in 1983.

This is pointed out today by the National Cattlemen's Assn. in a report of the association's monthly 19-city survey of super market beef prices. The national average price of 8 cuts on Nov. 11 was $2.29 per lb. — down 6 cents from a month earlier and down 9 cents from a year earlier. This was the fifth consecutive month of decreasing beef prices.

Production of beef and other meats has been large this fall, NCA pointed out, and wholesale and retail prices have declined. Because of high feed costs and adverse economic conditions for cattle feeders and producers, with numbers and beef production steadily will decrease, but, for now, supplies are very ample.

"There just isn't any doubt about it," said NCA President W. J. Oak Waldrip. "Beef is a mighty good buy at this time. The prices of most things we buy have gone up in recent years, but beef prices averages have shown little change. As a matter of fact, you have to go all the way back to 1979 to find a monthly five-cut average as low as the current average. And the 19-city ground beef average is the lowest since 1978."

The NCA survey showed that there was considerable price spreading — including specials on some of the more expensive steaks — this month. The November five-cut average was down from the previous month in 11 cities, up in seven and unchanged in one. The 19-city ground beef and chuck roast averages showed slight decreases, the sirloin and T-bone steak average declined substantially, and the round steak average increased.

The survey prices vary from month to month and among cities partly because of variations in the amount of price spreading by retailers at the time of the survey (the second Tuesday of each month). Differences in transportation costs and local wage rates also are factors in price differences among cities.

Adding Oil, Water To Grain Not Approved By USDA

Washington. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has not approved the application of water or oil to grain to control dust, Kenneth A. Gilles, administrator of USDA's Federal Grain Inspection Service, said today.

Several grain trade newspapers erroneously reported that USDA had verbally approved the addition of a spray of moisture or edible oil to suppress dust when loading or unloading grain, Gilles said.

"USDA authority is limited to certifying the quantity and quality of grain at the time of inspection," Gilles said. "The agency is not authorized to prove or disprove grain law suppressants."

"USDA supports efforts by the grain industry and others to develop methods to control grain dust. However, the addition of substances such as water or oil to grain may be considered adulteration and may affect both the quality and quantity of the commodity," Gilles said.

Safety Corner

Prevent Farm Falls

More than 20 percent of reported work injuries are the results of falls. Here are some tips on how to stay on your feet.

- Wear comfortable, well fitted, slip resistant work shoes or boots. Metal toe caps in the shoes or boots provide extra protection.
- Keep walks, aisles and working surfaces cleared of ice, snow, mud, manure, grease, spilled grain and other things that can cause falls.
- Avoid clutter in work areas, passageways and steps. Put tools and implements away when you are through with them.
- Keep extra riders off farm equipment.

An estimated 100 million meteoroids enter the Earth's atmosphere each day and all but about 500 a year are burned up in the atmosphere.

WINGERT.

FRANCK.

Wingert, Franck Head Polled Hereford Board of Directors

Polled Hereford breeders George Wingert, Ottawa, Kan., and Dick Franck, co-owner of Wooden Shoe Farms, Okla., have been elected chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the American Polled Hereford Association board of directors.

They were elected during the 51st National Polled Hereford Convention-Show-Sale held at the North American International Livestock Exposition, Nov. 17-19, in Louisville, Ky. New directors assuming four-year terms on the board are James Bennett, Red House, Va.; Phil Ellis, Chrisman, Ill.; and Dick Balder, Clements, Calif.

Wingert, owner of Wingert Stock Farm, began breeding Polled Herefords in the mid-1970s and has developed the operation into better than 2,000 acres running around 800 registered Polled Hereford cows. Wingert and his wife, Ann, have four children, all of whom have been active in the cattle business.

Franck and his partner Jack Powell have been in the Polled Hereford business since 1969 when they bought a 50-acre farm on San Juan Island, off the Washington coast, where Franck was born. The farm included 200 Polled Hereford cows which become the basis of the Wooden Shoe Farms cow herd. He and Powell have been in business together for more than 30 years, beginning with their partnership in Sound Co. of Seattle.

A suburbanite put on a last-minute effort of speed to catch his train—but missed it. A bystander remarked, "If you had just run a little faster you would have made it." The suburbanite replied, "It wasn't a case of running faster, but of starting sooner."

Least Costly Float Valve Is Completely Reliable

Despite the acid rains in some parts of the country, some farmers must still acidify their soil. The Agricultural Division of International Environmental, Inc. (Salt Lake City, UT 84116) makes a sulfur dioxide generator which is used for this very purpose.

The generator burns sulfur to make sulfur dioxide. A portion of the farmer's irrigation stream is diverted through the generator and the sulfur dioxide is passed through the water to form sulfuric acid (H₂SO₄). The acidified water is then pumped back into the farmer's irrigation stream.

"The detailed chemistry," according to William E. Sells, Jr., International Environmental's Chief Engineer, "is really much more complex. Strength of the sulfuric acid is between 400 and 6000 ppm as sulfate (SO₄). pH is approximately 2.0."

According to Sells, they found it necessary for this application, to match the inlet flow of their generator with the outlet flow. To achieve this, they decided to use a float-actuated valve to regulate the discharge of their pressurizing pump. Since the pump liquid is acidified to a pH of approximately 2.0, stainless steel construction was mandatory.

Problem solved? Not yet. Choosing the right liquid level control device was just the start. They had to find a good float-actuated valve and here they ran into some problems. The first one they looked at, although it worked quite well, was prohibitively expensive and another less expensive valve was needed for the application, but they had many operating problems with it in the first year that they had to discontinue its use.

At this point, according to Sells, they learned of a float valve manufactured by Gaden Machine Company (Mt. Ephraim, NJ 08059). Cost was lowest of all. Skeptical, they set up a reliability test at their Salt Lake testing facility. Sulfuric acid was run through the valve wide open for 1,000 hours. During the final 250 hours of testing, the float valve's mechanical actuating linkage was cycled 15,000 times. Based on malfunctioning during testing, they decided to use the Gaden float valve's sulfur dioxide generator. Reports coming in from a large number of field applications confirm this decision. The least costly float valve is, surprisingly enough, completely reliable.

High price, it seems, does not always guarantee superior performance. Sometimes less is more.

Simmental National Sale Set For 1984

Bozeman, Mt.-For the first time since 1976, the American Simmental Association will again designate and conduct a National Sale. The event is scheduled for January 19, 1984 and will be held in conjunction with National Western activities in Denver, Colorado. Transcon Livestock Services, Inc. has been selected as the sale management firm.

"The Board of Trustees has decided to reinstitute The National Sale, and has chosen the Denver National Western as the site," said Earl B. Peterson, Executive Vice President. "The

Upcoming ASA Meetings Slated For Honolulu, Springfield, And Denver

The American Simmental Association, in keeping with a long-standing tradition of rotating meeting sites, has announced meeting locations for the next year and a half.

The 1984 Annual meeting and convention will be held in Hawaii, the first time that an official ASA meeting has been held off the U.S. mainland. The Convention will convene January 31, and will run through February 2, with the Hilton Hawaiian Village in Honolulu serving as the headquarters hotel.

"A number of options are available, with regard to travel and hotel accommodations," said ASA Executive Vice President Earl B. Peterson. "We have contracted with Hilton Tours, Inc. to handle all travel arrangements, and contact should be established with that firm at the member's earliest convenience." Complete Convention information may be obtained by contacting the ASA office, Peterson explained.

Dates and locations for two other important meetings were recently established by decision of the ASA Trustees. The 1984 Summer Conference and Summer Classic will be held concurrently at the same time and at the same site. The combined event will be held July 8-12 in Springfield, Missouri. The two events had previously been kept separate. A decision on any future joint meetings will be made after the results of the Missouri event are known. The Trustees also voted to conduct the 1985 Annual Convention in Denver.

The Summer Conference has been an annual gathering of working committees since 1975, while the Summer Classic is a youth-oriented educational program, which has existed since 1980. The 1984 schedule will be carefully meshed, so that adults and youths may share a number of programs, and still accomplish their respective objectives.

"We're convening in Denver in 1985 largely because of our return to the concept of a National Simmental Sale," Peterson explained.

Simmental.

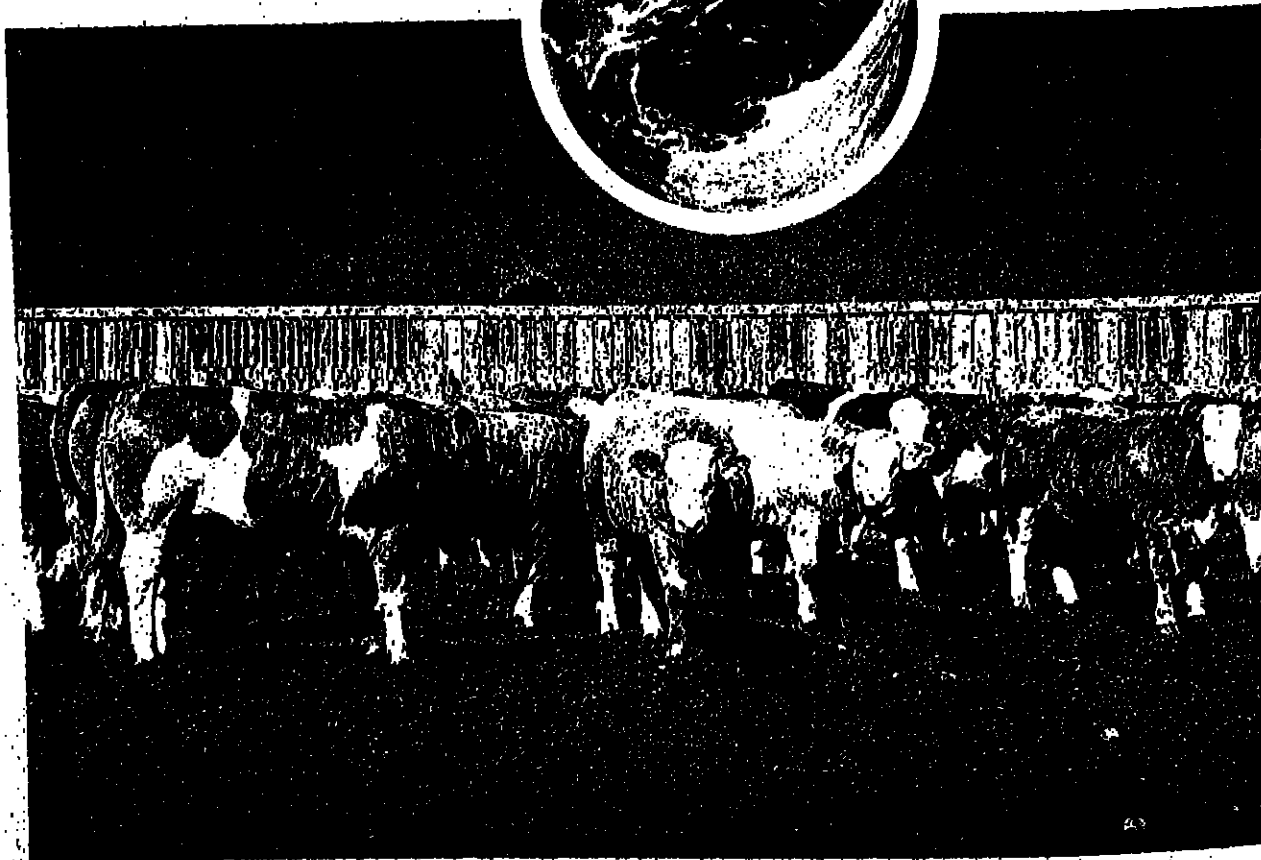

Reduce maintenance and interest costs.

Simmental feeders give you an edge: They grow faster, hit market sooner, and produce a higher ratio of red meat. This means better feed conversion and reduced interest cost.

Whether you feed heifers or steers, Simmental finish at desired weights, and 70% or more are YG 2s. That's what consumers want.

All of th' little Kennedys were schooled in this art and they did th' most complete job of turnin' supposedly hard nosed news persons into publicity flacks for their own advantage. They were beautiful people, fun to be around when they chose to be and they were all nearer th' ages of the news people and invited 'em to places where usually no ordinary reporter or writer had trod. Charisma abounded and minor fumbles were quickly forgot. Never before, nor since, has th' news media been handled with greater skill.

We havin' been weaned in th' newspaper business, have been exposed to just about every kind of promoter from those toun'tin' perpetual motion machines to politicians, perpetual youth nostrums, singers, dancers and invent ment schemes that th' human mind can dredge up. Natchery, this has resulted in some folks bein' inclined to think we are more than somewhat skeptical and on occasion a wee bit hard boiled, or someplace in between those poles. However, we still have to admit folks who are clever enough to sell themselves or their ideas or their things to folks like those in th' news media, who should have been around long enough to know when they are bein' gulled and when what these flacks are promoting is th' Real McCoy. It has been recorded that th' Kennedy Clan was human and indulged in their share of humanistic follies and capers of one kind or another, good, bad or indifferent.

The annual convention and trade show will be held Jan. 22-25 in New Orleans, LA. Events will take place at the Rivergate Convention Center and the Hilton and Marriott hotels. The convention theme will be "The Winds of Change."

President Ronald Reagan has been invited to speak at the opening general session on Tuesday, Jan. 24. NCA President Waltrip also will address the cattlemen and women on that day. The general membership meeting will take place on Wednesday, Jan. 25, with action on timely public issues confronting cattlemen.

Consumer Meat Use Steady

Consumer use of red and processed meats, such as luncheon meats, has steadied after recent declines compared to the use of poultry and fish. A recent report by the American Meat Institute and the National Livestock and Meat Board shows that while consumers are still concerned with health considerations—obesity, caloric intake, fat and cholesterol—when buying food, there is less emphasis on price than previously thought. Major concerns noted are quality and convenience, notes a meat specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The report spells good news for livestock producers and others in the meat industry.

NCA Opens Membership Drive For 4,500

Denver — The National Cattlemen's Assn. recently instituted a drive to enlist 4,500 new NCA members by March 31, 1984.

Chuck Fluharty, chairman of the NCA membership and revenue development committee, said that the new members are needed in order to maintain and build the "strength through unity" that the industry requires if it is to be an effective force in government and public affairs.

NCA affiliates and members will take part in the special membership drive, Fluharty said, and cattlemen and women who recruit new members will receive special recognition and also valuable awards.

Fluharty noted that the industry continues to face many challenges and that strong associations at both the state and national levels are necessary. He mentioned such things as the effects of general farm policy on cattlemen; government laws and regulations with direct impact on cattle operations; the need to improve public understanding and acceptance of the industry and its products; and marketing problems that must be overcome through joint industry action.

"Cattlemen must stand together in unity in order to support and promote their industry," Fluharty said. "At present, fewer than 40,000 cattlemen directly support NCA activities, although many other cattlemen benefit from the association's accomplishments on the industry's behalf. More members of our industry should share in the cost of programs which can help everyone protect his business and improve his livelihood. With more members, NCA and its affiliates obviously can do even more."

Fluharty said that anyone interested in NCA or in helping enlist new members should contact the NCA Membership Department, P.O. Box 3469, Englewood, CO 80155.

PRORICH FEEDS

FROM THE HEART OF THE ROCKIES.

A Testimonial...

"This past winter I used Prorich supplemental feed on my cow herd. I was very pleased with the results. As the cattle come through the winter in better condition than ever before. The cattle shined off immediately and cycled earlier. Having used different feeds in the past I can appreciate the values of the Prorich formula."

National Shorthorn Meeting Scheduled For Nat'l. Western

Sale held at the National Western Livestock Show and Rodeo, Denver, Co.

According to Ric Hoyt, president of the American Shorthorn Association from Burns, Or., delegates representing 26 voting districts from across the United States and Canada will converge at the Denver winter show to take action on motions that will affect the national beef cattle breed organization on the floor that the delegates will discuss concern the Shorthorn Performance Records program. The first one states that Shorthorn owners consigning cattle to the following American Shorthorn Association sponsored events are required to have their total herd enrolled in the Shorthorn Performance Records program and provide individual performance records on each animal before their cattle will be accepted for the following events:

1. National Sale and/or Denver Seedstock Special.
2. National Polled Shorthorn Congress Sale.
3. National Range Bull Evaluation Center Sale.
4. North American Heifer Calf Futurity Show & Sale.

The second motion says that in order to be eligible for premiums at an American Shorthorn Association sponsored Open Show (American Shorthorn Association portion of the premiums), the owner's herd must be enrolled in the Shorthorn Performance Records (SPR) program and each animal must have individual SPR records in order to receive American Shorthorn Association financial support. This resolution would become effective July 1, 1984.

Also planned for Thursday evening, January 12, 1984, is a special meeting for all Shorthorn producers and interested cattlemen, billed as the State Officers' and Breeders' Symposium, the sessions will discuss the role of the state president, the role of the state secretary, the Shorthorn Performance Records program, and merchandising Shorthorn cattle.

Dr. Hunsley stated that headquarters for the American Shorthorn Association in Denver, Co., will be the Clarion Hotel Denver Airport, formerly known as the Denver Stouffer's Inn. The deadline for placing reservations is December 18, 1983. Room reservations may be made by contacting the American Shorthorn Association, 8888 Haskell Street, Omaha, Ne., 68134, 402-383-7200.

Mill Brook Printer 185 x, owned by R. Lee Johnson, Fredericktown, OH, was the champion Shorthorn bull of the 1983 American Royal in Kansas City, MO.

His progeny have won 44 Championships throughout the Country and hold the weaning rate records on our Ranch. Guerra also stated that "at the upcoming Legacy of Champions Sale of the American III to be held at their Ranch on Dec. 10th, at 6:00 PM, they will be selling 5 two-year old halter broke 689 Hard Bull Prospects, 6 daughters (2 of which were of the winning Brahman females last year), plus cows at side and the services of this Register of Renown Red Indu Brazil Bull. Stocker Calf Trade Show Stated Jan. 5

College Station - Falls County, the self-proclaimed stocker calf capitol of Texas, is hosting the first ever Texas Stocker Calf Trade Show next January. The event will be Jan. 5 at the National Guard Armory just east of Martin on Farm Road 147. Registration will begin at 1:30 p.m. and is free until 3 p.m., after which time a $4 fee will be charged. Highlighting the trade show will be 18 seminars sponsored by allied animal and agricultural industries, plus out Ronnie Leps, Falls County Extension agent. In addition, two featured speakers will address the stocker calf industry at a 7 p.m. program. They are Dr. Rod A. Bowling, vice president for research and development and quality assurance with Mondalet of Colorado, Inc., and Dr. Gary C. Smith, head of the Department of Animal Science of Texas A&M University. "We are extremely proud to host this Stocker Calf Trade Show because of the tremendous stocker calf industry we have in Falls County," says Leps. "This year we will have about 70,000 head of stock calves in our county on oat, alfalfa and ryegrass pasture and another 80,000 head in surrounding counties. The stocker calf industry is growing rapidly in our area," notes Leps, "but has been generally forgotten about the last time it's weaned until it's sold into the feedlot. However, we're making a period of 100 to 200 days as a calf. This segment of the industry hasn't received much attention, so we're trying to fill that void with our trade show." The Texas Stocker Calf Trade Show is being sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A&M University System, the Falls County Beef and Forage Council, and allied animal agriculture industries.

Texas & Oklahoma Firms Take Hereford Futurity Bull Show

The 1988 American Royal Livestock Show's richest premium purse was the Hereford Futurity Bull Show when 12 yearlings clasped for $17,000 in premiums. This special futurity show drew great interest as American Royal officials stated that spectators watching this show was the largest of any livestock judging event. The top prize of $5,100 went to Lone Star Domino 72C, owned by Lone Star Hereford Ranch, Henrietta, TX., and Born Herefords of Follett, TX. The reserve champion's premium check of $3,400 went to GB L1 Domino 212, owned by Gino Pedretti, El Nido, Texas. Interest in the futurity has been building steadily when the first futurity payment was made 10 months ago. The second payment was made in early summer, and by the time of the final payment last August, the total purse had grown to $17,000. Temper is what gets most of us into trouble. Pride is what keeps us there. The trouble with people who talk too fast is that they often say something they haven't thought of yet.

Outlook For Cattlemen Improves

times for U.S. beef cattle producers.

Speaking at the Oregon Cattlemen's Assn. convention, Riley forecast these economic trends for 1984-85: (1) A continuation of the recovery that began in late 1982; (2) continuation of a modest inflation rate; (3) a modest decline in both nominal and real (adjusted for inflation) interest rates; (4) a continued increase in numbers of persons employed and a decrease in unemployment rates.

Those forecasts, Riley cautioned, are based on assumptions that Congress and the administration will reduce government spending and deficits; that the world economy will recover; and that international trade will increase again.

Assuming the improvement in basic conditions, the NCA economist continued, cattleman's costs should increase more slowly than during the past four years, and demand for beef should be strengthened.

"The economic setting of real economic growth and stable prices and interest rates is very positive for cattlemen," Riley said. "The major uncertainty (other than weather) is government programs. Over the last few years, many of these programs have been negative, and the new dairy program is yet to be played out."

It is difficult to be optimistic about favorable changes in government policies, Riley said. But, he added, greater involvement of NCA and the beef industry in formulating farm policies should help the situation.

He also noted that individual cattlemen have opportunities to improve the efficiency and profitability of their operations — by being better planners and managers. It may not be possible to profitably increase per capita beef supplies, but it should be possible for the better cattle operators in particular to realize more consistent profits at current levels of production.

"After three years of poor economic results and a year of PIR and dairy legislation, prospective economic stability can do wonders for the businessman/cattlemen," Riley said. "The businessman/cattlemen is the one who keeps good records, plans for the future and also recognizes that what happens outside the farm or ranch gate — including marketing, financing and government policies — is an increasingly important factor in the individual's as well as the over-all industry's success."

Jordan Hosts Beefmaster Field Day

Gary and Linda Jordan of Diamond Laxy J Beefmasters, Lexington, Texas, hosted a crowd of nearly 100 people at a Beefmaster field day on their ranch. Geared toward commercial cattlemen, the field day program included informative presentations on the advantages of Beefmasters.

Charlie Bradbury, director of field services for Beefmaster Breeders Universal, explained the BBU Upgrading Program. With Diamond Laxy J cattle as examples, he demonstrated the procedures for inspecting base cows, first and second-crop females in the program. Beefmaster breeder Don Lawrence, Nacogdoches, Texas, spoke on the increased profitability of his cattle since switching to Beefmasters. Market reports showing the heavy weaning weights and feedlot demand for Beefmaster-sired calves were also presented to the field day participants. Diamond Laxy J herd sires were on display, as well as a top group of young Beefmaster bulls.

Hides & Offal

North Brunswick, NJ Nov. 21 (USDA) — The estimated value of Hides and Offal from the average 1,000 pound slaughter steer for Monday November 21, 1983 is $6.51 per 100 pounds live weight, which is unchanged from Friday.

The auction term in the most-travelled of hides is migrates round trip from the Arctic to Antarctica, a total of 28,000 miles.

At their November 5 Beefmaster field day, Gary and Linda Jordan welcomed a crowd of nearly 100 people to Diamond Laxy J Beefmasters, Lexington, Texas. Here Charlie Bradbury, director of field services for Beefmaster Breeders Universal explains the BBU Upgrading Program to the field day participants. These heifers are first-crops (one-half Beefmaster) females and have been bred to Beefmaster bulls to produce second-crop (three-fourths Beefmaster) calves.

Chevy Chase, MD — A Five-year $50 million campaign to double private support for 4-H, the nation's largest out-of-school youth educational organization, was announced here today by James L. Dutt, chairman, chief executive officer, Bestrice Foods Co. and chairman, National 4-H Council Board of Trustees.

The campaign seeks support for 4-H in four major areas: enriching educational experiences for youth by expanding recognition programs, updating curriculum and educational materials and developing pilot programs, updating curriculum enhancing leadership development of adult and teen leaders and professional staff; increasing public awareness; and improving conference and training facilities at the National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase.

Robert B. Gill, vice chairman, J.C. Penney Company, will serve as chairperson of the campaign committee that includes corporate and civic leaders nationwide. The first meeting of the committee will be held Dec. 1, during the 62nd National 4-H Congress at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago, Ill. The National 4-H Congress, Nov. 27-Dec. 1, is the premiere recognition event for 4-H members nationwide.

The campaign is a cooperative effort between state 4-H programs and National 4-H Council, a not-for-profit organization. It will not only build upon traditional support from the corporate community but also will seek expanded support from foundations and individuals.

In accepting the role as campaign chairman, Gill said, "I am proud to be a part of this expanded effort to involve the private sector in 4-H to a greater degree than before. We at J.C. Penney Company are well aware of the impact of 4-H on millions of young people who learn practical skills and develop positive attitudes toward themselves and the world around them."
